Dear Andrew,

I hope you are doing fine and back to your normal routine work. We had very good time with Barbara and Peter between 25th and 26th November 2005. We missed you as well. MACOFA members wished you quick recovery. I hope Barbara will share in details her experience during the visit when she comes back.

I have answered the questions you raised on our experience during the Internet forum and common property study as follows:

1. The Internet forum provided a very good opportunity to interact and share information and experiences on common property issues that are relevant and important to our area of work. In fact such an opportunity is rare and unique to share experiences within such wide network.
2. Yes I managed to get materials from the web that was useful although at times there were some difficulties accessing, but most problems were with the local Internet service providers.
3. The forum and study improved the understanding on common property globally and different cases and approaches used to facilitate access to common property could help modify and work out sustainable common property regimes that will suit local conditions and priorities.
4. I would like to participate in Internet forums on land and property rights in future to further the experience sharing and learning.

I hope I exhausted the questions. The whole organization and mobilization of the case study contributors was a great mission and I would like to congratulate you and colleagues for having the energy and vigor to motivate the team to undertake the study and participate in the Internet forum. Keep it up!

Thank you for the continuous update and guidance.

Best regard.

Thank you for your participation in discussion forum on common property resources.
We are pleased that there have been a number of good points raised, particularly during the first theme on commercialization and CPRs.

We would like to bring this phase of our work to a close, by asking for your feedback on the study process and especially on this internet discussion forum.

1. Were you able to read or share comments to the email discussion? If so, was the email discussion useful and relevant for your own work?
2. Were you able to access materials through the forum website? If so, were these useful? If not, were there any difficulties in accessing materials via the internet?
3. What could have been improved about the forum or study process?
4. Would you like to participate in internet forums on land and property rights again in the future?

Your comments will be very helpful for us to evaluate this process, and to improve on the format for future studies and internet forum discussions. (Please send your feedback to me at a.fuys@ifad.org or Julie Carle at j.carle@ifad.org)

We are now in the process of revising the draft case study synthesis paper, based on the email discussion and on your feedback to the first draft, and would still welcome any comments. A revised version will be ready by around 20 November. We are also developing a list of key conclusions and issues for consideration, based on the case studies and your comments in the internet forum, and will share a draft with you by the end of this month.

Best regards,
Andrew

Dear Andrew,
I could not respond /participate in the discussions as much as I would have liked to but I did read most of the contributions and the forum provided a good opportunity to learn from experiences world wide. In fact it was an unique opportunity to share experiences within the wide network of knowledgeable people. The experiences on common property issues were quite relevant and important to my area of work. I really got educated in the process and I look forward to such discussions in future.

Hi Andrew/Julie

Thanks for the opportunity to comment on the e-discussion. To answer your questions...

1. Were you able to read or share comments to the email discussion? If so, was the email discussion useful and relevant for your own work?

Yes, I was able to read and share comments on the discussion. There were different topics addressed, so some were more directly relevant than others to my immediate interests, but that is the nature of all discussions/conferences and the diversity enriches the interaction because I end up reading things I otherwise would not have.

I also appreciated the wide geographic spread of contributors and somehow you managed to get contributors that were willing to spend some time writing their contributions rather than just dropping a note - I guess these are mainly people that IFAD has built a good network with.

2. Were you able to access materials through the forum website? If so, were these useful? If not, were there any difficulties in accessing materials via the internet?

No, I didn't try to go to the website. Being busy I tended only to read what was sent, and not take the extra time to log onto the website.

3. What could have been improved about the forum or study process?

I think you dealt quite well with the challenges of conducting a forum in different languages. However, if there was a way of providing translations at the same time that contributions were sent out that would have kept us all moving together. Translations seemed to generally take a few days - even a summary sent out with it would have helped. In my case I'm okay with English and French, but Spanish stumps me

4. Would you like to participate in internet forums on land and property rights again in the future?

Definitely

Thanks again for your work in facilitating the forum. Although I only had the chance to contribute once because I was traveling much of the time, I enjoyed reading the submissions. It will also be helpful to read your synthesis paper that brings together the case studies and what came out of the forum.

Best wishes

Mike

Dear Andrew,

Thank you very much for this interesting forum, and for this opportunity of sharing ideas with a group with such varied experiences.

1. Were you able to read or share comments to the email discussion? If so, was the email discussion useful and relevant for your own work? I've been able to read most of the messages and have been interested by the case studies.

2. Were you able to access materials through the forum website? If so, were these useful? If not, were there any difficulties in accessing materials via the internet?
Yes,

3. What could have been improved about the forum or study process? Promote the discussions and interactions between participants.

4. Would you like to participate in internet forums on land and property rights again in the future?
Sure, this is a very important topic for me.

Thanks again for this opportunity,
All the best,
Celine

La traduction français -Anglais. Je saisis l'occasion pour remercier les collègues qui ont traduit de façon spontanée ma contribution pour le thème 2.

Oui et avec plaisir. Si l'on peut pérenniser un tel espace de dialogue, ce serait très utile.

Andrew,
Greetings from Kathmandu.
Due to frequent travel duty, I could not respond /participate in the discussions, but I did read some of the contributions and was impressed and got educated in the process. Congratulations to you and others who made it a success. I will look for future opportunities of this type.

Dear Andrew

Thank you for your kind cooperation and synthesing of the issues and learnings of common property. It is very insightgiving and useful. Sorry, since I have busy schedule and visits incoutry and outside country I could not participate. Sorry I missed lots of things. However, I have been reading contribution by other friends. It is very impressive and useful. I have no comments on contributions and questions.

Thanks

Andrew,

Thanks for the internet forum. Here is my response to the questions.

1. Were you able to read or share comments to the email discussion? Yes

If so, was the email discussion useful and relevant for your own work? As a researcher, I found the information more than relevant for my work and it broadened my understanding of CPR especially through interactions with CPR in similar jurisdictions.

2. Were you able to access materials through the forum website? Yes

If so, were these useful? Very useful

If not, were there any difficulties in accessing materials via the internet?

3. What could have been improved about the forum or study process? There should have been a summary of each discussion highlighting key findings and salient issues.

4. Would you like to participate in internet forums on land and property rights again in the future? Yes

Thanks once again for the opportunity to participate. It was a great learning opportunity.

Bonjour cher collegue

malgre mon absence de ma base j'ai ete au fait de tout ce qui s'est passe et les documents dans le site sont tres interessants nous les exploitons dans le cadre de notre travail. le partage avec d'autres ONG ou acteurs evoluant dans le meme secteur se fera sur la base du rapport.

Je reste tres interesse a continuer cette discussion sur des themes aussi pertinents que les themes precedent

Hola Andrew:

Gusto de tener noticias de vos. Gracias por tu comentario y mucho agradeceré, para fines de evaluación aquí en el trabajo, si habra una publicación sobre los trabajos, afin de consignarlos ahora que termina el año y viene la etapa de evaluación de los investigadores y donde las publicaciones juegan papel importante. Saludos cordiales y estamos en contacto

Dear Andrew

Replies to your questions:

1. Were you able to read or share comments to the email discussion? If so, was the email discussion useful and relevant for your own work?

Yes - very relevant. We will be including key points from the discussion in our forthcoming review of CPR research for DFID. We had good feedback from the specific questions we asked the forum.

2. Were you able to access materials through the forum website? If so, were these useful? If not, were there any difficulties in accessing materials via the internet?

Yes. They were useful. We also had no problem in uploading material from our own programme to the website for general access.

3. What could have been improved about the forum or study process?

I think it worked just fine.

4. Would you like to participate in internet forums on land and property rights again in the future?

Yes.

Best wishes

Jon
