1. What is the current context on land issues?

There is a new narrative around land that includes:

- Governance, policies and legal frameworks (includes issues on legislation and land titles, secure land rights, inclusive public policies, policy implementation and monitoring)

- Conflicts competition and land grabs (includes issues on competition over resources and scarcity; commodification and investments, expropriation and displacement)

- Diverse tenure regimes (includes issues on family farming, indigenous peoples, pastoralists and customary systems)

- Environmental sustainability and natural resources management (includes issues on climate change, resilience and degradation)

The next challenge is to bridge them together and with the other elements of the narrative:

- Poverty and livelihoods; land access and agrarian reform; food security; economic development and equitable growth; gender.
2. With who should ILC work with to achieve its objectives?

• Still at the core of ILC:
  ▫ CSOs-IGOs connection (with an increasing focus on grass-root organisations).

• Need to move to a more comprehensive and multi-stakeholder approach defining how to engage with:
  ▫ Land-relevant governmental institutions
  ▫ Private sector (to a lesser extent)
  ▫ Academy, donors, media (to a lesser extent)
3. What should ILC do over the next five years?

• Members expressed the need to:
  ▫ Improve coordination, collaboration and partnerships
  ▫ Increase international visibility, advocacy, campaigns and national recommendations
  ▫ Share experiences, success stories and best practices
  ▫ Provide capacity building and technical / institutional support

• Some of these actions could be embedded into NES processes to further contribute to national debates with recommendations and monitoring
4. What should be ILC thematic focus over the next five years?

• The most important areas highlighted are:
  ▪ Governance, policies, legal frameworks and international guidelines
  ▪ Diverse tenure regimes
  ▪ Conflicts, competition and land grabs
  ▪ Land access and agrarian reform
  ▪ Women’s land rights and gender

• There is an emphasis of the issues raised in the analysis of the context.
5. What should be members’ added value?

• Members highlighted four main issues:
  ▫ Improve coordination, collaboration and partnerships
  ▫ Share experiences, success stories and best practices
  ▫ Increase international visibility, advocacy, campaigns and national recommendations
  ▫ Receive capacity building and technical / institutional support
6. Comparison between members and non-members
